yanick kemayou investigates how the socioeconomic background of organizational leaders can explain their management relevant attitudes the study provides theory development and first empirical tests of the impact of leaders socioeconomic background on their risk propensity sense of control and justice perceptions the model integrates sociological and social psychological research on class dynamics and attitudes yanick kemayou uses cross sectional data from the german socioeconomic panel to test the model the empirical analyses provide robust support for the theoretical ideas results show for instance that reproduced leaders with a lower social distance toward broader classes exhibit more favorable justice perceptions toward groups such as unskilled workers than distant reproduced leaders the bottom line for organizations is that leaders are likely to assess situations and persons differently because of their own socioeconomic background remarkably as many as sixty six thousand churches are in conflict at this moment and one third of those will experience permanent damage though christ commanded his followers to forgive we often don t and that lack of forgiveness poisons all of our relationships churches are particularly vulnerable to unforgiveness for a simple reason no one has taught us what forgiveness actually is how it benefits the forgiver and the forgiven and most importantly how to forgive the road home provides a pathway to forgiveness and healthy reconciliation for churches wounded by conflict while the road it follows is not easy just as forgiving is not easy the result is an explosion of grace and restoration taking relationships beyond where they were to where they were meant to be
